

NIOST Summer Seminars

Boston, Massachusetts

NIOST National Institute on Out-of-School Time at the Wellesley Centers for Women

Summer Seminars 2010

This July, join the National Institute on Out-of-School Time in improving your afterschool program!

Now more than ever it's time to network with other OST professionals at the 2010 NIOST Summer Seminars at the John Hancock Conference Center in Boston, MA.

Uncover innovative ways to strengthen your advising and leadership skills, attract quality staff, maintain and improve professional competence, understand how to maintain and build your OST programs, and meet funder requirements by learning and implementing the comprehensive APAS Program Evaluation System.

For more information and to register go to www.NIOST.org

July 12-13

A. Elevating Professional Development at the Program and System Level

See reverse side of flyer for more details.

B. Afterschool Program Assessment System (APAS)

These days, many funders and state agencies require a full program evaluation to assess current program quality, to identify areas of improvement, and to track long term progress. Take this workshop and learn to use and gain access to our nationally recognized, scientifically tested, APAS system. This training will include APT O & Q, SAYO S & T and the newly released SAYO Youth (Y) tool. The SAYO Y provides an essential youth perspective on program quality and youth outcomes linked to youths' future success.

July 14-15

C. Effective Management

This seminar will help you maintain and continue to make program improvements while weathering cost-cutting and new requirements. Join afterschool professionals from around the country who are tackling the same issues and learn how to guide program improvement, build stronger staff, and use tools for assessing program and staff practices.

D. Quality Advisor Training

This training will prepare you to provide technical assistance to OST programs working on quality improvement. You will learn the skills of observation, analysis, and problem-solving to assess and counsel programs using the APT (Assessment of Afterschool Program Practices Tool).

Presents

Elevating Professional Development at the Program and System Level

Professional development is often cited as one of the key factors in attracting and retaining a quality workforce. While substantial progress is being made in this arena, current efforts are fragmented and tend to be organization-specific. This seminar will address both a program and systems approach for tackling the challenges of the out-of-school time workforce.

Who Should Attend:

Afterschool Program Leaders, 21st CCLC Program Administrators, Statewide Affiliate and Network Leaders and Staff, Higher Education Administrators and Instructors, Training Providers, Policymakers, and State and Local Government Officials.

System Level Track includes:

- Components of state-wide professional development systems
- Quality rating and improvement systems (QRIS)
- Core competencies and credentialing
- The role of higher education
- Financing professional development systems

Elevating Professional Development July 12-13, 2010

Program Level Track includes:

- A framework for building high quality programs
- Coaching and supervising your team to best practice
- Building a learning community
- Stages of team development
- Continuous program improvement cycle
- Dealing with staff teams in conflict
- The reflective process
- Relationship based professional development and TA

For more information and to register for Summer Seminars 2010
go to www.NIOST.org

NIOST National Institute on
Out-of-School Time
at the Wellesley Centers for Women