WORKSHOP SATURDAY

FEATURING
Lynda Weaver

Join Lynda for a session called “Steps to Learning: Developmentally Appropriate Practices from Birth to Six”. Creating the foundation for lifelong learning begins in infancy. This workshop develops our understanding of how banging a rattle develops pre-writing/writing skills, babbling leads to language/literacy, and stacking nesting cups sets a firm foundation for science and math. Developmentally appropriate practices requires knowledge of what a child does each level of development. Through appropriate activities, toys and songs, learning takes place in our classrooms. This seminar is filled with hands-on materials, educational songs and practical ways to enhance teaching activities in any classroom.
